In correspondence with Paul Seath you have recently indicated that you would like and be happy to receive ad hoc updates on Employment Law developments. This service has now been set up and the first two such updates will follow shortly.

The intention is that the updates will be as concise as possible. This may mean that in certain circumstances further information will be needed and where that is the case, Metcalfes simply ask you to reply to the update e-mails explaining the further information you require.

In addition to the ad hoc e-mails the intention is to provide a slightly longer piece of employment advice every 4 to 6 weeks. The format for these updates will be similar to the update you have already received relating to the additional Jubilee holiday. If you do not wish to receive such updates as part of the ad hoc update service please let us know by responding to this e-mail.
